Economic Pace of U.S. Quickened in Late '71

WASHINGTON (AP) — The pace of the nation's economy quickened in the final three months of 1971, growing at a snappy 6.1 per cent rate while inflation slowed to a crawl, the Commerce Department said today in a report of national output.

Despite the sharp pickup in growth, however, the economy turned in a disappointing performance for all of 1971. It grew at an average of 2.7 per cent for the year, well below the rate needed to trim unemployment.

But the fourth-quarter gain in Gross National Product output of the nation's goods and services, gave the Nixon administration new hope that the economy has moved out of the doldrums, ready for a strong 1972 advance.

The 6.1 per cent increase in "real GNP," output measured in terms of 1958 non-inflated dollars, was coupled with a marked deceleration in the rate of inflation, partly reflecting President Nixon's moves to control wages and prices.

As measured by GNP, inflation rose by only 1.5 per cent, the lowest quarterly rate since the third quarter of 1965, the department said. That compared with a 2.5 per cent rate in the third quarter and a 4.6 per cent average rate for all of 1971.

It was during the middle of the quarter that Nixon's wage-price freeze moved into the less stringent Phase 2, in which wages and prices were allowed to go up within certain limits. The GNP figures are also subject to substantial later revisions, and all the figures could be affected.

But government analysts cited the figures as proof that the economic upswing predicted by Nixon began during the final part of last year.

"The economy has already shifted into a higher gear and the prospects for strong real growth and moderating inflation in 1972 are excellent," said Dr. Harold C. Passer, assistant secretary of commerce for economic affairs.

Despite the sizable fourth-quarter gain, the unemployment rate remained high during that period and closed out the year at 6.1 per cent. This indicated that the strong growth had failed to cut into the jobless rate.

GNP rose by $19.6 billion in the October-December quarter to a seasonally adjusted annual rate of $1.073 trillion.

But for the year as a whole, GNP averaged $1.047 trillion. This is well below the administration's original 1970 forecast of $1.065 trillion, which it officially abandoned at mid-year when it became obvious that the economy's performance was falling short of its forecast.

In Hijacking

Daring Thief Captured

DENVER (AP) — A young, mustachioed man who hijacked a jetliner in Nevada, collected $50,000 ransom and then parachuted from the craft over the Colorado plains is awaiting action on a federal charge of air piracy.

U.S. marshals are expected to take custody of him today at the Logan County Hospital in Sterling, 90 miles northeast of Denver, and bring him here for a hearing on the charge.

Positive identification of the sky pirate still has not been made, although the FBI said he purchased a ticket for the hijacked Hughes Air West flight under the name John Shane.

Another mystery remained as to how the curly haired man made his exit from the DC9. Officials said the only door open when the plane landed at Denver's Stapleton International Airport Thursday was to a baggage compartment.

Claiming he had a bomb, the man commandeered the plane at Las Vegas' McCarran International Airport Thursday as it taxied down the runway for a flight to Reno.

Before allowing the 56 passengers and two stewardesses to deplane, he demanded and was given $50,000 in $10 and $20 bills, three parachutes and two crash helmets. He then directed pilot Don Burkhard of Seattle to fly to Denver.

At Reno, two Air Force F111 jets were ordered into the air at the request of the FBI and they tailed the DC9 as it headed east.

Over the plains near Sterling, the hijacker left the plane.

The F111s kept the parachute in sight as it drifted toward the grassy farmland below, radioing his position to their home base at Nellis Air Force Base, Reno.

One of the military pilots, Lt. Col. Edward Satterfield, said he saw the man land in a plowed field.

"When he looked up and saw me, he threw a case up in the air like he was disgusted that he had been followed," Satterfield said.

FBI agents and Colorado State Patrol officers guided by directions from the F111s tracked footprints through mud and snow from a spot where they found a parachute and helmet.

Peter Blackburn, a 52-year-old farmer, who saw two state policemen spot the man in a pile of weeds.

The man stood up, raised his hands, and was handcuffed without a struggle, Blackburn said.

FBI agent John Morley said the man complained of an injured leg and was taken to the hospital in Sterling. Dr. John Naugh said he had suffered a sprained left wrist, a sprained left ankle and a slight cut on the left forearm.

He was held overnight under guard.

Buildings Unoccupied

Arson Is Suspected In 3 County Blazes

The Pettis County Sheriff's department is checking the possibility of arson in three fires in the county late Thursday and early Friday morning. The houses that were destroyed were all unoccupied, according to firemen who answered the calls.

"When we have three fires in one night, with the buildings unoccupied and no electrical connections, we have to suspect arson," Sheriff Emmett Fairfax said Friday morning.

He added that this is the first time this has occurred in Pettis County, but in talking to sheriffs of other counties he has learned burning of vacant buildings has become a problem in the past few months. "We were expecting it to happen here," Fairfax said.

The Pettis County Fire Department answered the first call at 10:22 p.m. Thursday about a fire on the Jim Hieronymus farm, 2½ miles east of Beaman on Route HH. The vacant house was engulfed in flame when firemen reached the scene. The building was destroyed.

According to the fire department, someone apparently tampered with the lock on the farm gate, although the lock was not opened.

The second fire call was at 4 a.m. Friday involving a vacant house on the Sam Harlan farm, two miles west of Camp Branch. The fire gutted the building.

En route to the Sam Harlan farm, firemen noticed another fire one mile east of Camp Branch. The house, which belonged to Jim Williams, was also destroyed.

No estimates have been made on the amount of the loss the fire department indicated.

The gates to the Sam Harlan and the Jim Williams farms were pushed down, presumably by driving a car over them, it was reported.

Living Costs Go Up

WASHINGTON (AP) — The cost of living surged four-tenths of one per cent last month after the price freeze eased, the government said today, but December's increase still left 1971 with the best inflation record in four years.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics said almost two-thirds of last month's jump was due to a 1.1 per cent increase in food prices, highlighted by a big 5.6 per cent jump in the cost of fresh fruits and vegetables.

For all of 1971 the cost of living rose 3.4 per cent, lowest since a 3.0 per cent increase in 1967. Intervening increases were 4.7 per cent in 1968, 6.1 per cent in 1969, and 5.5 per cent in 1970.

The four-tenths of one per cent December jump was twice the largest increase for any month during the August 15-November 14 price freeze. The administration has long predicted a "bulge" in prices would show up because strict freeze controls became more flexible in the second phase of President Nixon's economic stabilization program.

The increase for December was the same whether figured on an unadjusted basis or adjusted to compensate for normal seasonal variations.

It included besides the 1.1 per cent increase in food prices, a three-tenths of one per cent increase in the cost of housing and a two-tenths of one per cent increase for health and recreation. There were some declines. Apparel and upkeep dipped one-tenths of one per cent and transportation fell two-tenths of one per cent.

During the Price Freeze the Consumer Price Index advanced one-tenth of one per cent in September and two-tenths of one per cent in both October and November.

Annual Progress Section Sunday

This Sunday The Sedalia Democrat-Capital will publish its annual Business Review and Forecast section. A detailed look at the activities of the local business community, this reader extra provides a good example of the progress and improvements made during the past year.

Covering activities which range from the completion of plans for a new municipal building to the construction of new recreation facilities, the section also provides reports on what business hopes to accomplish in 1972.

Watch for this interesting and informative section in this Sunday's Sedalia Democrat-Capital.

Real Cool Move

A "cool" service station attendant most likely prevented a tragedy from occurring yesterday in Jonesboro, Ga., when a customer pulled away from his pump with the hose still in his gas tank, ripping the pump from the ground. Gasoline erupted in a geyser (1).

but the attendant calmly rolled newspapers and stuffed them into the severed line with his foot (2) and waited until the Clayton County fire department (3) arrived to begin the hosing down operation (4). (UPI)

Emergency Legislation

Seek End to Dock Snarl

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (AP) — President Nixon sent Congress emergency legislation today that would provide for arbitration of a West Coast dock dispute and an immediate halt to the strike at Pacific ports.

In a message to Congress, Nixon said he wanted the measure passed by the end of next week.

"Let there be no mistake about the urgency of this legislation," he wrote. "This is a vital matter to the people of this country, and the nation can afford no delay."

A two-stage strike by the International

Longshoremen's & Warehousemen's Union against the ship-operating Pacific Maritime Association is estimated to have caused economic damage mounting into the hundreds of millions of dollars.

Here is how the legislation Nixon proposes would work:

Immediately upon its becoming law, the strike would end. Then the secretary of Labor would appoint a three-member arbitration board that would have 40 days in which to impose settlement terms. The board's findings would be binding for at least 18 months, meaning there could be no strike or lockout during that time.

The President acted after conferring at his home here with Undersecretary of Labor Laurence Silberman.

Silberman told reporters the administration has conferred with ranking Democrats on the Senate and House Labor committees to urge prompt hearings on the emergency proposal and quick floor action.

"We haven't gotten a commitment that they will move immediately," he said.

Nixon emphasized his concern about the dock walkout by adding two sentences to his State of the Union address Thursday.

He urged prompt enactment of a long-pending administration bill designed to avert major transportation tieups.

Church Union Efforts Gain Momentum

NEW YORK (AP) — A modern wave of anti-institutionalism has caused a "failure of nerve" in many church officials about the quest for church reunion, an expert says. But he adds that the goal already is emerging and its attainment seems certain.

"It's not just a pipe dream," says the Rev. Dr. Paul A. Crow Jr., of Princeton, N.J., executive secretary of the Consultation on Church Union—COCU. "There's more momentum for it now than there ever has been."

But much of the impetus, he adds, is now coming from the local scene rather than from denominational centers.

"It's a new kind of pressure that is coming from the grass roots," he says, referring to the growth of cross-denominational coalitions forming among different congregations in many communities."

Interviewed prior to the current observance of the annual week of prayer for Christian unity sponsored by Protestant, Orthodox and Roman Catholic bodies, Dr. Crow said the movement has entered a more realistic stage.

"It has moved past the old-style conciliarism of amiability when ministers got together and now is involving broader participation of the laity in the common functional arena," he said.

Dr. Crow, 39, an Alabama-born church historian, left a seminary teaching post at Lexington, Ky., four years ago to administer the project seeking to unite nine American Protestant denominations totaling about 25 million people.

It is only one of about 50 different merger negotiations going on between Protestant denominations in many parts of the world, some of them nearing consummation.

Besides these, theological talks also are continuing between Roman Catholicism and the major Protestant and Orthodox traditions, with a growing list of agreements of various aspects of doctrine and practice.

Dr. Crow, who spends about half his time on the road meeting with various church groups to explain the basis and pattern for the proposed united church said the upsurge of local ecumenical clusters, coalitions, consortiums and alliances of various kinds, dealing with issues of race, drugs, poverty, peace and other matters, has produced a "new local ecumenism."

"Congregations are relating to each other locally, on their own terms and out of their own needs and initiatives," he said. "They're saying in effect that denominational identification is a thing of the past."

He said the phenomenon has not been systematically surveyed, but recent spot checks show at least 400 such cross-denominational arrangements in many communities.

The denominations involved are the Episcopal, United Presbyterian, United Methodist, Presbyterian U.S. (Southern), Christian (Disciples), African Methodist Episcopal, African Methodist Episcopal Zion and Christian Methodist Episcopal churches and the United Church of Christ.

National Sales Tax Speculation Revived

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's promise to propose school-financing methods to relieve property-taxpayers has revived speculation that he may seek the value-added levy, a form of national sales tax.

Nixon made no mention Thursday of the value-added tax—or any specific tax—in that portion of his State of the Union message devoted to school financing.

Press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said later that the White House has "a positive view" on value-added, but Nixon has not decided on that tax as the answer.

Regardless, comment from Congress indicates little chance such a tax would be voted this year.

The tax, widely used in Europe, is applied at each stage of production and marketing of a product. The tax is based on the value added to the product taxes and providing both fair and adequate financing for our children's education."

Nixon said the cost of education has risen to such an extent that "financial crisis has become a way of life in many school districts.

"The brunt of the growing pressures has fallen on the property tax—one of the most inequitable and regressive of all public levies. Property taxes ... have more than doubled in the past decade and have been particularly burdensome for our lower-and middle-income families and for older Americans."

Recent decisions in several state courts that school financing through local property taxes is discriminatory and unconstitutional add to the urgency, Nixon continued.

Chairman Russell B. Long, D-La., of the Senate Finance Committee took Nixon's remarks as a "suggestion of a value-added tax" and said he is not enthusiastic.

Nixon said that later this year, after receiving reports from his Commission on School Finance and the Advisory Council on Intergovernmental Relations, "I shall make my final recommendations for relieving the burden of property taxes and providing both fair and adequate financing for our children's education."

Nixon said the cost of education has risen to such an extent that "financial crisis has become a way of life in many school districts.

"The brunt of the growing pressures has fallen on the property tax—one of the most inequitable and regressive of all public levies. Property taxes ... have more than doubled in the past decade and have been particularly burdensome for our lower-and middle-income families and for older Americans."

Recent decisions in several state courts that school financing through local property taxes is discriminatory and unconstitutional add to the urgency, Nixon continued.

Chairman Russell B. Long, D-La., of the Senate Finance Committee took Nixon's remarks as a "suggestion of a value-added tax" and said he is not enthusiastic.

Demonstration

Parent education moderator Ken Marlin visually displays an action-reaction cycle to a 19 member class Thursday night at State Fair Community College. In the cycle the action of the child brings a reaction from the parent. The reaction causes the parent to initiate an action of his own which in turn brings about similar behavior in the child. "This can become a vicious cycle," Marlin told the group. (Democrat-Capital Photo)

Television, Living Pace Blamed For Difficulties

Television and the fast pace of modern living took a beating Thursday night at the hands of the members of a group interested in becoming better parents and helping others to reach the same goal.

The first of five adult discussion sessions held at State Fair Community College by a parent education group was sponsored by the Mid-Missouri Mental Health Center and Parent Education Association (PEA), both operating out of Columbia.

The group heard moderator Ken Marlin, senior staff member for the Mental Health Center and a co-founder of the parent education group, explain the basis of the self-educating structure the group will be working under.

In a discussion period parents generally agreed that the fast pace of living in a highly mechanized and mobile society and the popularity of television were to blame for much of today's youth problems.

They felt television disturbed what was once normal conversation in the home, and that the child not being in the habit of conversing with his parent on a normal and regular basis therefore tended less to do so when a need to communicate arose.

Many members also stated that the materialistic values commonly accepted today put undue pressure on parents to produce more artificial family experiences, and placed pressure on the child to ask for more material things. These pressures come from peer groups, television advertising and the general ideal of family life as portrayed by advertising campaigns, they felt.

This first session was attended by 19 people, representing eight families, representatives of the University of Missouri Extension Nutrition Education program, the Henry County Welfare office, the Head Start program of the Missouri Valley Human Resource Development Corporation.

Marlin told the group parents are the most untrained professionals in the world. "We were all raised by amateurs," he said. "While other fields require training and some require licensing before participation, a parents' only requirement is children on which to practice."

According to Marlin the PEA was created as a result of the counseling done by the Mental Health Center, when it was realized the majority of the counseling sought involved parent-child relationships.

A group of counselors, teachers, ministers and psychological social workers in the Columbia area formed the PEA to train parents to become more proficient in their job.

Presently similar groups are meeting in Bonneville and Columbia with plans to start others in Marshall and Moberly. Sponsoring groups include the United Church of Christ, and the Cooper County Drug Council.

It was learned that because of the interest shown in this type of class in the Sedalia area another program of five sessions has been scheduled to begin Feb. 10. Marlin said 12 people have already signed up for this second class but there were still openings available. Further information on enrollment can be obtained by calling Mrs. Ruth Schaeffer at Bothwell Hospital, 826-8833, extension 89.

Most of the parents attending Thursday night's class expressed a desire to be able to deal consistently and fairly with their children and to better understand them as individuals with problems of their own. Marlin added that for each parent with a problem child there is a child that has a problem understanding or accepting his parent.

It was reported that one of the major objectives of the board "will be to bring the story of Beacon in the Night to those concerned." Contrary to earlier reports, the meeting was not open to newsmen.

Home Management Topic at Meeting

Miss Alice Mae Alexander, a representative of the home management division of the University of Missouri Extension Center, was the guest speaker at the monthly meeting of the Mid-Missouri Association of the Blind and Physically Handicapped Thursday at New Hope Baptist Church. About 20 members attended.

Max Shirky, Route 2, demonstrated measuring and writing devices designed specifically as aids to the blind.

According to the base spokesman, the Corps of Engineers led the bids, which will be opened Feb. 9.

The three buildings involved in the renovation project are the base alert facility, which houses the Minuteman education program, among other things; the base supply building and a building to be used for security operations.

Work will involve placement of interior partitions, painting, repairs, installation of electrical facilities, heating, air conditioning and so on.

Exterior work will involve concrete grading and other items. The contractor will be given 180 days from the time he begins the work to complete the project, the base spokesman reported.

Two guns, a holster and some ammunition with a total value of $201.70 were reported taken from a car parked on the Permaneep parking lot sometime Thursday night.

Richard Binder, Route 1, Green Ridge, said he and a friend had planned to go hunting Friday, and had left a .22 caliber rifle, a .22 caliber pistol, the holster and ammunition in the back of his car when he went to work.

To Assist Problems Of Inmates

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — How does a man behind bars get legal counsel when he is faced with a divorce, child custody or a myriad of other legal problems?

Missouri's new director of corrections, William G. Miller, announced Thursday those imprisoned at the penitentiary for men at Jefferson City will be able to get help on these problems beginning next week.

Law students from the University of Missouri, acting under the supervision of a practicing attorney, will begin then to provide these services, which the U.S. Supreme Court insists upon in order to assure inmates of access to the courts.

The program was conceived by the former corrections director, Fred T. Wilkinson, who retired Jan. 1. Wilkinson worked with the department's attorney, Howard L. McFadden, and Prof. Gary L. Anderson, University of Missouri law school, in preparing the program.

It will be funded by the Missouri Law Enforcement Assistance Council. Jefferson City attorney Robert D. Kingsland will supervise the program.

The Missouri Supreme Court recently authorized third-year law students to act in this capacity as long as supervision is provided.

Studying Education Duplication

MANHATTAN, Kan. (AP) — Universities in five states are studying means of avoiding duplication, reducing costs and upgrading quality of education.

Universities involved are Kansas State, Kansas, Iowa State, Missouri, Nebraska, Oklahoma and Oklahoma State.

The four-month study was authorized by the Presidents Council of the Mid-America State University's Association.

"We are seeking more ways in which advanced—and particularly doctoral—programs can be maintained and developed of highest quality and lowest possible cost," said Dr. Paul Young, executive director of the association and a K-State vice president.

"A single institution in the five-state region might offer a doctoral program in which students from all five states could enroll at resident student rates," Young said.

This would permit a program of national distinction, he said, and yet be more economical than if each institution offered the program to a small number of students."

Such co-operation already exists in Nebraska, Kansas and Missouri in the fields of dentistry, architecture and veterinary medicine.

Call Grand Jury On Drug Traffic

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. (AP) — The first grand jury to be convened in Buchanan County since 1969 was impaneled Thursday and Prosecuting Attorney Don Parker said he would present information on drug traffic.

Parker said the information was gathered by police undercover agents over a three-month period.

Circuit Judge Frank Connell Jr. gave the 12 jurors a general report on possible areas of investigation.

Ann Landers

Mom Shouldn't Push Girl Into Dating

Dear Ann Landers: Our 16-year-old daughter is a very sweet, rather pretty girl. Betsy is petite (5'1") blonde, nice figure, and is always getting compliments on her clothes. Betsy has no confidence in herself because she has never had a date. Frankly, I can't understand it. I have seen some of her friends who are very popular and they are not nearly as attractive as Betsy. There are at least a half dozen boys who consider her pal. They phone for help with homework but they never ask her anywhere.

I have suggested to Betsy that she invite some boys over (one at a time) but she is afraid they will consider her pushy. She is also afraid that if she were turned down she'd die of shame.

How do I get across to her if you want something in this world you have to go out after it? A big school party is coming up and if Betsy doesn't get asked, she'll feel terrible. What can I do to help? — Perplexed Mom

Dear Mom: You can stop making such a federal case of Betsy's datelessness. The girl is only 16 and probably a late bloomer. Her lack of confidence may well be a result of your anxiety over the fact that she isn't popular.

Summer down, Mom. An unaggressive girl these days is a joy. Betsy will be asked out in due time by a young man who likes her style. She'll be a lot more comfortable with him than with a dude she captured with a battle plan.

Dear Ann Landers: Yesterday I was about to get into my parked car when I noticed a child in the car next to mine. The little boy couldn't have been more than two years old. The motor was running and the doors were locked. I decided to wait until the driver of that car appeared to tell him or her a thing or two. In about 15 minutes the child's father appeared. He looked like Mr. Average-Nice-Guy. I tried to keep my anger under control as I listed some of the things that can happen to a youngster locked in a car. He seemed shocked. It had never occurred to him that he was risking his son's life.

Since everyone reads your column I'd like to present some jarring facts to Mr. and Mrs. John Q. Public. Children left in locked cars can meet the following fate:

1. Suffocation from exhaust fumes.

2. Burns from cigarette lighters.

USE HOMETOWN
TULLIS-HALL
MILK
"Always Fresher"

3. Accidents caused by putting the car in or out of gear.

4. Strangulation caused by playing with power windows.

5. Kidnapping or rape. (There are a lot of kooks running loose.)

6. Accidents caused by someone hitting your car.

Anyone who thinks I'm a crepe-hanger or a Cassandra should talk to people who work in the emergency rooms of our city's hospitals. Every day some youngster, somewhere is the victim of one of the above listed accidents. Of course the parents can never forgive themselves. They all say the same thing: "I had NO idea." So, here it is in black and white, folks. Don't let it happen to your dear little boy or girl. — Lorraine, Ohio Mother

Dear Mother: I appreciate your having taken the time and trouble to write. You have performed a greater service today than you will ever know.

Aide Parallels Nixon and Truman

KANSAS CITY (AP) — "If there's one thing we need today in this country, it's more realism," says Harry S. Dent, special council to President Nixon.

And Dent sees his boss as a realist in the tradition of Harry S. Truman.

"He and Truman are much alike in their realism," Dent said in an interview Thursday.

"I think Truman dealt with the issues realistically in his day."

Dent says the White House is staying out of politics these days.

"We had a staff meeting," he said. "They made it very clear the White House staff would not engage in political action in 1972."

The Nixon campaign is being run by the Re-elect the President Committee with offices across the street from the White House. Dent said.

He said the staff did a good deal of politicking in the 1970 election but it was decided after they were over that what ever real political activities took place would take place outside the White House.

Dent, who said his job is to maintain political contacts, was in Kansas City to speak at a civic club dinner.

TOKYO — There was a time when Sen. George Aiken (R-Vermont) offered a unique solution to the Vietnam war: the United States would just declare itself the winner and get out at full speed.

The Nixon administration had adopted part of this formula in its trade confrontation with Japan. After imposing a 10 per cent surcharge on imports and forcing a revision of the value of the yen as against the dollar, Washington has declared itself the victor — and economically hard-pressed Americans are supposed to exult in this "triumph."

The trouble is that Uncle Sam can't walk away from this economic confrontation the way Aiken suggested he walk out of Vietnam, so there hasn't really been any U.S. triumph because the battle is far from over.

There won't be any highly-emotional textiles negotiations this year, but trade relations between the U.S. and Japan will continue to be a colossal headache for both sides. This will strain political relations and throw a heavy new cloud over the question, "Where goes Japan?"

The final trade figures for 1971 will show that Japan sold about $3.3 billion dollars more in goods to the United States than she bought. That is the largest trade deficit the United States has had with any nation at any time in history.

While Treasury Secretary John Connally and Co. were engineering their supposed economic coup, U.S. exports to Japan were dropping by 10 per cent and U.S. purchases from Japan were rising by 26 per cent.

While the dollar was slipping, Japan's foreign exchange reserves skyrocketed to more than $15 billion.

Is this situation likely to change in 1972 to the extent that the U.S. and Japan can stop grabbing at each other's throats and resume cooperating in an effort to produce political stability in the Far East? Not hardly.

The main effect of President Nixon's economic "shock" of last August 15 was to jar Japanese confidence to the point that there has been what the U.S. embassy here calls "a sharp decline in new private plant and equipment investment."

The embassy added that "Japan probably will continue to run a large trade surplus next year, partly because the economic slowdown has sharply reduced the demand for imports."

There is hope in Washington that the Japanese trade deficit can be cut to $2 billion this year, but Japanese business leaders say this kind of reduction seems impossible. They say they expect the United States to continue "a tough line."

One American said of U.S. policy: "If you can't convince 'em, confuse 'em — and Uncle Sam sure has the Japanese confused."

Some Japanese business leaders, like

Shigeo Nagano, board chairman of Nippon Steel Corp., believe that Japan has "a good thing going" in trade with the United States and that Japan must make sacrifices so as to keep her trading partners happy. He says he pressed through voluntary limitations on Japanese steel shipments to the U.S. so as to prevent cries of "greed."

Nagano and others of his persuasion are acutely aware that Japan does six times more trade with the United States than with all the Communist countries combined. Yet Mainland China gets away with a demand that Japan buy exactly the same amount of goods as she sells to Red China — and Japan is not permitted to sell to China consumer items like radios and television sets which are so prominent on the U.S. market.

Teizo Horikoshi, vice president of the Federation of Economic Organizations, takes the tougher view that Japanese meekness will not solve U.S. economic problems.

"The Japanese have invested aggressively in industry whereas you Americans have not. The trade imbalance is likely to persist because there is not so much that we can buy from the U.S. Even if Japan deliberately increases purchase of aircraft, space-related equipment and other highly sophisticated items, there will be no way to cut the imbalance to $2 billion."

"This trade imbalance must be rectified over the long haul through currency adjustments. The U.S. should devalue the dollar, but France's strong opposition made it politically impossible for Mr. Nixon to devalue the way he should have."

Horikoshi is a close friend of Prime Minister Eisaku Sato, and it is a good bet that the Japanese government will adopt his tough response to Washington's "tough line."

Many a personal friendship has died over money borrowed, owed or just scrapped over. Money may yet prove the undoing of the Japanese-American alliance.

Junior College Aid Should Be Boosted

Those who believe in the community college concept are looking to the Missouri General Assembly this year to correct a glaring inequity in the degree of financial support given junior colleges.

Approved by the Senate Education Committee Wednesday night was a bill to increase the annual per-pupil contribution for junior college students from $320 to $500. A similar bill failed last year.

Behind this bill, and an identical one in the House, are some interesting statistics which show that Missouri's junior colleges are not getting a fair shake when it comes to state aid.

Although junior colleges enroll 30 per cent of the higher education students in Missouri, they receive only 8 per cent of aid-to-education funds for college students.

Since the 1967-68 school year, the state's community colleges have seen their enrollments increase 79 per cent, compared to a 23 per cent increase at state colleges and universities.

State Fair Community College is no exception, and in fact has led the state in junior college growth with enrollment increases of more than 20 per cent for each of the last three years.

Under the increased aid formula, SFCC would stand to gain $180,000 a year in state aid. This money could be put to good use in improving programs and facilities at the college.

The junior college aid bill must still clear the Senate Economic Committee and be perfected. We hope this is done expeditiously, so the General Assembly can pass this needed legislation and start giving Missouri's junior colleges a share of the budget commensurate with the vital contribution they are making to higher education in the state.

Merry-Go-Round

WASHINGTON — The secret cables from Saigon show that U.S. officials have been talking out of both sides of their mouths about their campaign to wipe out the Viet Cong infrastructure.

The idea was to kill, capture or convert the key people who operate the Viet Cong underground inside South Vietnam. This grim missionary effort is known delicately as Operation Phoenix, named after a mythical bird which rises from its own ashes.

But the Phoenix program, according to the classified cable traffic, hasn't gotten off the ground. Ellsworth Bunker, the American Ambassador in Saigon, has reported to Secretary of State Bill Rogers that the operation "has not appeared to have significantly weakened" the Viet Cong infrastructure.

Bunker's cable is dated Aug. 30, 1971. The date is significant. For a few days earlier, Ambassador William Colby and Assistant Defense Secretary G. Warren Nutter made public statements saying exactly the opposite.

Colby, who headed the pacification program in Vietnam, testified on July 19 before the House Foreign Operations subcommittee. Suave and solemn as an undertaker, he praised the Phoenix program.

It "has reduced the power of the VCI (Viet Cong Infrastructure)," he said, and "is an essential part of the Government of Vietnam's defense." American support, he declared, "is fully warranted (sic)."

The VCI, he said, "operates under considerable limitations" and has been reduced in some areas "to skeleton status." As statistical evidence, he reported that 9,331 VCI were "neutralized" during the first five months of 1971. This included 3,650 killed, he said.

Bunker's secret Aug. 30 cable, however, tells a disarmingly different story. Although the Phoenix program "routinely exceeds its goals of neutralizations (deaths and arrests)," confided Bunker, it "has not appeared to have significantly weakened the VCI."

Giving the classified statistics on VCI strength, he reported: "June strength (of) 61,994 was down 341 from May. The drop in strength for the first half of 1971 is about 10 per cent. Even if this figure is reliable, it is not a significant decrease in view of the urgent GVN (Government of Vietnam) efforts directed against the VCI in 1971."

"Six thousand members of an underground organization in a population of eighteen million represents one VCI for each 300 people. This has apparently been adequate to keep the VCI viable and enable them to make their presence felt."

A few weeks before Colby bragged to Congress about the success of the Phoenix program, his top aide in Gia Dinh province, David McKillop, reported grimly. "We have not scratched the surface of the Urban VCI network of the Shadow Supply System."

In a confidential report from Binh Duong province, Lt. Col. Gerald Chikalla informed Colby that Operation Phoenix was killing off the little fish but missing the sharks.

"There has developed the tendency to place more importance on volume rather than on quality neutralizations," reported Chikalla. "Much of this can be attributed to U.S. guidance and influence and Quotas."

Another reason for Phoenix's failure was the unwillingness of the Vietnamese to turn in their sons and fathers to the Saigon government. As Lt. Col. Jack Cantrell put it in a classified report from Binh Tuy province:

"The major reasons for lack of success include: (a) The inherent distaste of the people to indict (inform on) relatives, friends or personnel with political implications. (Phoenix) is a U.S. innovation that has been bought officially by the Vietnamese but which does not get the priority attention in action at any level that it gets on paper."

Similar admissions of failure come from Lt. Col. Gerald Bartlett in Hau Nghia province.

Yet Colby suppressed these unfavorable reports and gave Congress a fabricated, favorable account of the Phoenix program. He was supported by the Pentagon's G. Warren Nutter, who wrote a similarly glowing letter about Operation Phoenix to House Foreign Affairs Chairman Thomas Morgan, D-Pa., on Aug. 21.

Once again, we have caught government officials in a flagrant deception. They twisted the facts, apparently in order to win congressional support.

Vice President Agnew is a man often accused of a lack of sympathy for the black and the poor. But you'd have a hard time convincing Ray May, the rugged outside linebacker of the Baltimore Colts.

May has adopted three teen-aged black youths and plans to convert his Kansas ranch into a home for disadvantaged city boys.

Not long ago, May received a handwritten note from the vice president. "Ray, congratulations," it said. "Perhaps this will help a little." Enclosed was a crisp $100 bill.

Never Use a Pillow For Baby Mattress

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY — In reference to Mrs. B. T.'s Pointer concerning using a laundry basket as a bassinet, I must suggest as a safety Pointer from a professional standpoint that the pillow should not be used as a mattress. A pillow should never be used for an infant. It would be much safer to use a firm pad of some sort which could be made from various things. One recommendation would be a cotton blanket folded and covered. A firm piece of two-inch foam, covered, could also be used. — MRS. C. H. R. R. N.

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY — I would like some Pointers on how to keep neat and presentable-looking when traveling with three children and a shedding dog. The biggest problem is with dog hair on all coats and sweaters. Surely some more experienced travelers have found some good Pointers. — D. M.

DEAR POLLY — I have the most beautiful table linens and my Pet Peeve is with those guests who wipe lipstick on my lovely napkins. It is almost impossible to remove so I cannot imagine why anyone would do such a thing. I do hope you print this. — PEGGY

DEAR POLLY — Tack a plastic freezer container to the inside of a cabinet door and have a very handy container for small things.

I always keep transparent nylon thread on a bobbin for my sewing machine so it is ready for quick mending of fabric of any color.

I keep an envelope addressed to Polly and add Pointers as I think of them so several are mailed at once and I do not forget something I really want to share with others. — BARBARA

Several Methods For Cooling Food

Dear Dr. Lamb — Should food be left to cool at room temperature or should it be placed immediately in the refrigerator while still hot? We were taught that bacteria starts to form if not refrigerated immediately and this theory is scorned by a relative, who insists that food be cooled at room temperature and then refrigerated. I would really appreciate finding out who is right or wrong. She also says it is much harder on the refrigerator to put hot food in there, but I'd rather defrost often than throw away food at the prevailing prices.

Dear Reader — Adequate cooking destroys most bacteria. Pork, for example, should be cooked beyond the pink stage or, if trichinosis is present, a person eating rare pork can become infected. Sufficient boiling to cook vegetables, baking or cooking meat to medium- or well-done will eliminate the bacteria.

When food sits for some time, then the bacteria in the air and all around us can begin to grow and multiply at a rapid rate. In a warm room they multiply much more rapidly. In many instances, the bacteria elaborate a toxic substance which is a poison to the human system and causes illness. Reheating the food will kill the bacteria, but not eliminate the toxin that has formed in the food.

There will be no harm to the food by refrigerating it as soon as it is cooked. But, in most instances, it won't do any real

Benefit Payments In Mail

The Sedalia Democrat, Friday, Jan. 21, 1972 — 7

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Missouri's Employment Security Division has already started mailing out payments of extended benefits under the compliance law signed by Gov. Warren E. Hearnes Thursday.

The Employment Security Division said it had a stockpile of some 6,800 benefit claims when Hearnes signed the law. Within three hours the first batch of payments went to the post office.

Joe Dietrich, the division's assistant director for Employment Security, said the claims have been coming in at the rate of about 500 a day since Jan. 2.

The new law permits a jobless worker who has exhausted his regular 26 weeks of benefits to claim up to 13 additional weeks. The maximum is $57 a week.

It also relieves business and industry from having to pay an estimated $150 million in penalty taxes this year and extends unemployment compensation provision to employees of state universities, colleges and hospitals.

Crowder Visits SFCC

State Fair Community College resumes basketball action Saturday night in the Agriculture Building on the Missouri State Fairgrounds, with a game against Crowder College at 8 p.m.

Crowder is 14-4 for the season, and poses one of the tallest threats that the Roadrunners will face this season.

Leading the way is Clark Jones, 6'8", who has one of the state's top averages at just over 21 points per game. Jones teams with two more 6'8" players — Larry Hutchinson and Larry Carter.

The leading scorer so far this season for the Roughriders is 6'1" guard Larry Addison, who is carrying a 21-point plus mark through 18 games this season.

Other noted key players on the Crowder roster include Dave Nash, a 6'3" guard, along with Scott Schroth, 6'2", and Mannas Mitchell, 5'10".

With the Roughriders height, SFCC coach Bill Barron may shake up the starting lineup, inserting Jerry Diekmann inside to team with Clarence Hampton, Jimmy Lassiter or Myles Yates.

"I'm just not too sure how the starting lineup is going to be," said Barron. "and I probably won't make a decision until Saturday night."

Tiger Frosh Pull Upset

(Democrat-Capital Service)

WINDSOR — The Smith-Cotton freshman B-team upset top-ranked Warrensburg College High Thursday in the upper bracket semifinal game of the Windsor Junior High School Basketball Tournament, 51-44.

Behind by one point with 1:03 to go in the game, Mel Rager canned a turn-around jumper to put the Tigers out in front for good. S-C, fourth-seeded in the tourney, picked up nine more points before the quarter ended and won going away. The young Tigers outscored College High 14-3 in the final period.

S-C will now take on second-seeded Knob Noster in Saturday night's championship game at 8:45 p.m.

The Bengals' zone defense, which Coach David Backer used all the way, caused many College High turn overs, which S-C turned into scores of their own.

S-C led at the end of the first half, 27-22, but saw the lead change hands as the third quarter came to a close. College High hit for 19 points in the third quarter and carried a 41-37 lead into the final stanza.

Down by as many as five points early in the fourth quarter, the Bengals then put together their most consistent play of the game and nailed down the victory.

Guard Cliff Callis led the S-C scoring with 14 points, while Harry Browder added 10.

Young Critical Of the A.A.U.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — George Young says he'd like to compete in the 1972 Olympic Games but if he does, he'll run without wearing the patch of the Amateur Athletic Union of the United States.

Young kicks off his 15th season in international track tonight when he takes on five other stars in a two-mile run at the Sunkist Indoor Games. When he takes the track, he'll be representing George Young, teacher, Casa Grande, Ariz.

"I haven't worn the AAU patch in a year and I don't intend to wear it again," said Young.

"Their organization is so poor in so many ways and the athletes suffer because of it. It's forced the big names out of the sport and pushed track and field farther and farther into the background."

Young, the American record holder at two miles, said what the AAU needs most is a promoter.

"The AAU needs to be straightened out. For years and years they've been promoting their organization instead of promoting the sport."

"For example, take this Sun-kist meet. Al Franken, the promoter who was barred by the AAU a few years ago, puts together a great meet that'll probably be a sellout."

"Why? Because he got one good race—Jim Ryun versus Kip Keino. That's what the people want to see."

Young said the AAU hasn't hindered his training or performances—"they just haven't helped a bit."

"The AAU has the international sanction and they keep that sanction because they perpetuate themselves."

Young said college and university athletes "get a lot of help from their organizations," the National Collegiate Athletic Association and the U.S. Track and Field Federation. But, he added, "athletes out of college don't have an organization concerned about their welfare."

Maddaford won the NAIA two-mile in 1971, setting a record in the process. Parris holds both the indoor and outdoor marks in the pole vault and will be out to improve on his 15-7 performance of last year.

The pole vault likely will be one of the meet's most hotly contested events. Besides Parris, the entries include Greg Starkovich of Adams, Colo., State and Mike Bryant, who has cleared 16 feet this season, and Jim Lincoln, both of Eastern New Mexico.

Many of the athletes hope to attract attention in the NAIA meet in view of the fact that the Olympic Games will be held in Munich, Germany, in October.

The team title is wide open with the leading contenders Eastern New Mexico; Fort Hays, Kan., State; Adams State; Dallas, Tex., Baptist; Jackson, Miss., State, and Kentucky State.

Only one final is set tonight, the long jump. The remaining 14 championship events plus the Traders will be Saturday night.

Other top stars who will compete in their specialties are Rex Maddaford of Eastern New Mexico and Rickey Parris of McMurry, Tex., College.

NAIA Indoor Opens Tonight

KANSAS CITY (AP) — John Mason, Jean-Louie Ravelomantos and Rodney Milburn will share much of the spotlight in the seventh annual indoor track and field championships of the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics which open tonight at Municipal Auditorium.

The big field includes 450 athletes and 83 teams.

Mason, a star for the Pacific Coast Track Club, will defend his title in the Traders Open Mile and hopes to keep intact his victory streak in the NAIA event. He is undefeated in six previous appearances.

Ravelomantos, from Westmont, Calif., tied the indoor 60-yard dash record here a year ago when he was timed in 5.9 in the preliminaries.

Milburn, the pride of Southern University in Baton Rouge, La., is the world's fastest hurdler and won the AAU, NCAAs and NAIA competition a year ago.

Other top stars who will compete in their specialties are Rex Maddaford of Eastern New Mexico and Rickey Parris of McMurry, Tex., College.

Tucson Open

Owens, Archer In Tie After Opening Round

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Charles Owens drives the golf purists out of their minds.

He hits everything cross-handed, that is, with his left hand lower than his right when he grips the club. And he can't bend his left knee.

And he's also tied for the lead with George Archer after one round of the $150,000 Dean Martin-Tucson Open golf tournament. Each had a brilliant, seven-under-par 65 Thursday on the 7,305-yard Tucson National Golf Club course.

"They say you're supposed to have a firm left side in golf," the soft-spoken, 34-year-old Owens said. "Well, I've got the firmest left side in the world."

His knee was fused in an operation after he injured it in a practice jump while a member of the 82nd Airborne Division at Fort Bragg, N.C.

And about that cross-handed grip?

"My father was a greens-keeper at Winter Haven, Fla.," he said. "We lived on the course. When I started playing, I didn't have anyone to play with or anyone to teach me."

"I thought I was doing it right. I had two hands on the club just like everyone else."

Owens and Archer, who won the Glen Campbell-Los Angeles Open two weeks ago, held a one stroke lead over Lou Graham and defending champion J. C. Sneed, tied at 66.

The group at 67 included Bob Nichols, Herb Hooper, Jack Montgomery, Bob Murphy, Jim Jamieson, Mike Morley and rookie Chuck Thorpe.

David Hill headed a group of a half dozen at 68 as the touring pros took advantage of the beautiful, warm weather to shoot exceptionally low scores.

But Lee Trevino, just named The Associated Press Athlete of the Year and the man picked to win this tournament, had his putting woes and was far back in the field at 71.

Owens lived in New York for 13 years, working much of that time as a sporting goods salesman. He's 34 and just joined the pro tour late in 1970 after three years on the Negro tour.

He won the satellite Kemper-Ashville Open last year, but hasn't come close to winning a major event. He won only $11,476 last season.

He started on the back side first, matched one bogey with a birdie, then made his move with a string where he birdied four of five holes.

He also birdied the two par fives on the front side and stroked an iron to eight feet on the fifth hole.

The 6-foot-6 Archer, No. 4 on the money winning list last year and heading that slate with over $31,000 in just two weeks this season, spiced his round with two strings of three birdies each.

Jayhawks Pay Visit To Buffs

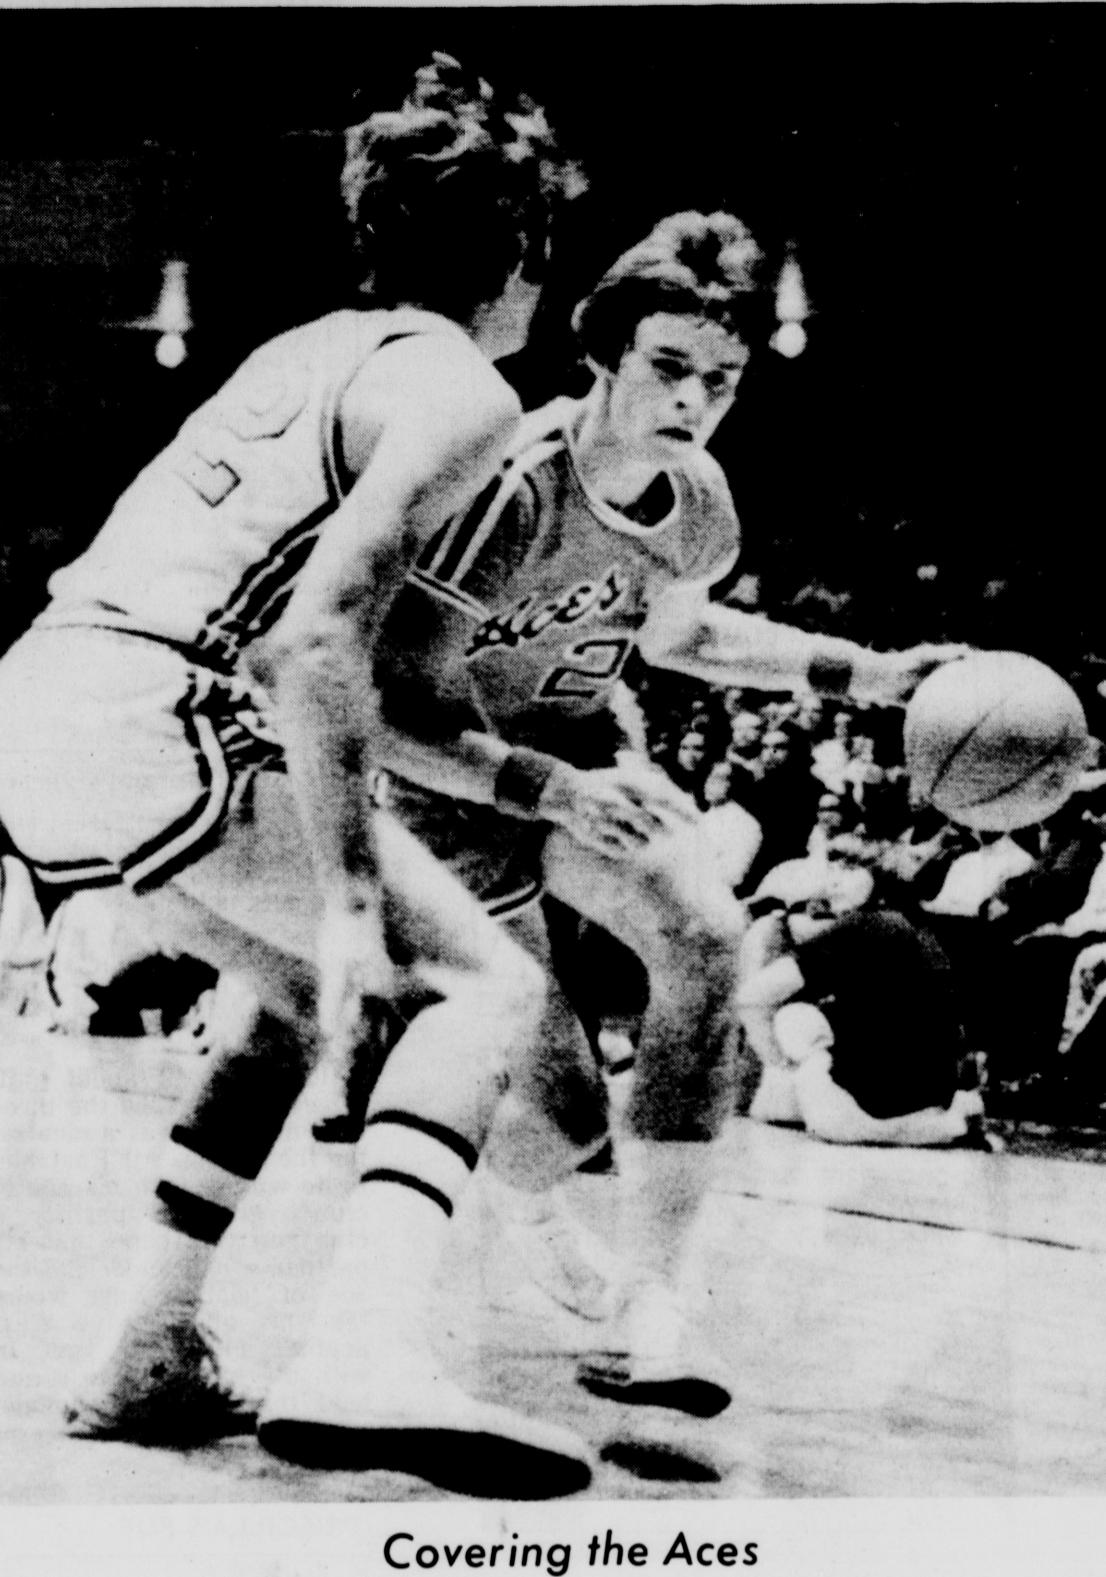

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Defending champion Kansas has the chance to gain a tie for first place in the Big Eight Conference basketball race Saturday afternoon when the Jayhawks invade Colorado for a televised game.

The Jayhawks, 2-0 in league play, put themselves in that position earlier this week when they upset Kansas State in a double overtime scrap. If the Jayhawks beat the Buffs, 0-2, they will tie idle Nebraska.

Two other conference games are scheduled Saturday night, Iowa State, 1-2, at Missouri, 1-1, and Kansas State, 1-1, at Oklahoma State, 0-3. Oklahoma, 2-1 and 6-7 overall, is hot to South Alabama in a nonconference tilt.

Coach Ted Owens of Kansas, recalling the triumph over Kansas State, says his team "needs to succeed. From this standpoint, this win was most significant."

Bud Stalworth, the Jayhawks' star, is still favoring an injured right knee and still may not be at full strength in the Colorado contest.

Duquesne Swamps The Irish, 84-79

By KEN RAPPORER
Associated Press Sports Writer

After losing by 65 points to Indiana earlier this year, Notre Dame Coach Dick Pheips philosophized that things could be worse.

He was right. Things have gotten worse for his basketball team.

The fighting Irish have been beaten four of five times since that Indiana humiliation, including an 84-79 defeat to Duquesne Thursday night.

"We're not a good running club and we're not a good shooting club... and, actually, there's not much else," says Phelps, who's not used to such ineptness.

Before he came to Notre Dame this season, Phelps didn't know what it was like to be a loser. He coached spectacular freshman teams at Penn and led Fordham's exciting club into the NCAA playoffs last season.

He knew he wouldn't have a rose garden at Notre Dame, with the loss of seven players from last year's 21-8 squad. But, on the other hand, he didn't expect all the thorns. Two returning lettermen were lost to injury and a bright sophomore was bounced because of disciplinary problems.

Georgia Tech, one of the eight teams to beat Notre Dame this season, trimmed Tulane 94-78 in Thursday night's action which included none of the ranked clubs.

Elsewhere, LaSalle topped American University 59-53 and Temple ripped St. John's, N.Y., 79-65 in a doubleheader at Philadelphia's Palestra. Utah turned back Utah State 66-59. Tulsa nipped Creighton 76-75 and St. Louis trounced Evansville 94-81. Oral Roberts, the nation's leading scoring team, beat Idaho State 86-85.

Notre Dame had serious intentions of winning its fourth game in 11 this year before Duquesne cut off a late Irish rally. Lionel Billings scored 29 points for the Dukes, who won their 11th game in 12.

Steve Post scored 28 points and Bob "Peanut" Murphy had 22 to pace Georgia Tech over Tulane. Steve Baruffi scored two field goals and made a key steal in the final minutes for LaSalle; Temple held St. John's to three field goals in the first 16 minutes to handily whipped the Redmen; John Dearman led Utah with 17 points and St. Louis shot a hot 54 per cent from the field while crushing outgunned Evansville.

Devaney Will Head '72 Kodak Clinic

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Bob Devaney, coach of the University of Nebraska's national championship football team, will headline the 1972 Kodak Coach-of-the-Year Clinic here, the sponsor announced Thursday.

Appearing at the Feb. 18-20 clinic with Devaney, will be two members of his staff, Carl Selmer and John Melton.

Chuck Fairbanks, coach of Oklahoma University's second-ranked Sooners, and Eddie Crowder, who coached Colorado to third place in the 1971 national rankings also will take part.

Other coaches on the clinic staff will include Frank Kush of Arizona State, John Merritt of Tennessee A&M, and Russ Sloan of Northeastern Missouri State.

Hosts for the clinic as well as participants are Oklahoma Coach Bud Wilkinson and Michigan State Coach Duffy Daugherty.

Barry Pearson of Northwestern gained 674 yards in catching 48 passes in Big Ten games last season. Both figures paced the conference.

Majors Asks Name To Be Withdrawn

AMES, Iowa (AP) — Iowa State University Football Coach Johnny Majors said Friday he has asked to have his name withdrawn from the list of candidates for the coaching vacancy at Georgia Tech.

Majors was one of at least five candidates interviewed earlier this week for the job by Tech Athletic Director Bobby Dodd.

"I still have a goal to be achieved at Iowa State—winning the Big 8 title," said Majors.

The Georgia Tech athletic director is seeking a replacement for Bud Carson, who was fired nearly two weeks ago after a five-year stint as the fourth head coach in Tech's 80-year football history.

Majors and Bill Fulcher of Tampa were the two most prominently mentioned candidates. Both visited the Tech campus in Atlanta this week.

"I want to concentrate all my energies on our plans for recruiting and for the 1972 season," Majors said Friday.

"I was flattered that I was considered for the Georgia Tech coaching vacancy but I am most happy at Iowa State. All I want to do now is to get to work with my staff in preparing for spring practice and our recruiting program."

There is a Wall Street saying that the Bull gets a little, the Bear gets a little and the Hog gets nothing.

East was a hog. He decided to double four spades because he thought that South was defending not bidding to make.

He was right about that. When West opened the three of clubs there was a nice set for the taking. All East had to do was to take his ace of clubs; give his partner a club ruff and hope that his partner would underlead the ace of hearts. East would take his queen; give West another club ruff; get in with the king of hearts and lead the five of diamonds.

The defense would have five tricks in and would be sure of a sixth. Furthermore, if South made the mistake of playing a low diamond West would be able to give East a ruff and be set four tricks.

All this nice profit was waiting there for a modest individual but East was a hog. He wanted to slaughter South and decided to go after a cross-ruff.

East returned his five of diamonds.

South didn't say thank you but he was mighty happy. He went right up with the ace of diamonds; drew trumps and proceeded to discard one heart on dummy's fourth club. Then he spread his hand conceding one heart and one diamond.

Dole Suggests Study of War

By BILL KOSMAN
Associated Press Writer

Attacking the "present crop of Democratic hopefuls" for their past positions on Vietnam, the chairman of the Republican National Committee has proposed a bipartisan congressional committee to investigate the causes and conduct of the war.

"The American people have had enough rumors, enough leaks, enough 'inside stories,' enough lies," Sen. Robert Dole of Kansas said today. "The American people want the truth. It is time the Congress showed them the respect they deserve and give them the truth."

Dole said in remarks pre-

Republicans hailed it and Democrats didn't. Nixon emphasized the need to steer clear of politics and get the business of government in high gear. (UPI)

Expect Resignations Over Cadet Scandal

AIR FORCE ACADEMY, Colo. (AP) — U.S. Air Force Academy officials say they expect many more resignations in addition to the 16 cadets who have already quit in a probe of academic cheating and other violations of the school's honor code.

Lt. Gen. Albert P. Clark, academy superintendent, said Thursday night the cadets themselves are conducting the investigation and are checking a list of about 75 names, of which 23 are seriously implicated.

"All of these cases where the honor violations are confirmed will result in resignations," Clark said.

The latest investigation is the third involving cheating at the 3,900-student Air Academy since 1965.

Clark said most violations involved "academic cheating, with one or two cases of stealing from fellow cadets."

He said the form of cheating involved "sharing information of a written examination in advance of the examination, so that the cadet who gave the information and he who received it are both guilty in violation of the code."

Clark and Galligan said the investigation started Wednesday night when a cadet under surveillance for suspicion of petty theft was confronted by cadet members of the honor committee.

Galligan said the cadet broke down and indicated his case was only "a piece of the action." He resigned, Clark said.

"I would be a great deal more worried if this (the violations) did not surface," Clark said. "The cadets themselves have discovered these cases and are conducting the investigation. They are living under their own standards."

The 13-year-old academy underwent its first major cheating probe in 1965, when 109 cadets resigned as a result of involvement in the theft, sale and improper use of examination papers. In 1967 another 46 resigned for either exchanging information on exams or for having knowledge of the cheating but not reporting it.

Tel Aviv Airlifts Swelling Populace

TEL AVIV (AP) — Nightly airlifts from Vienna to Lod airport outside Tel Aviv are swelling the immigration of Jewish families from the Soviet Union to Israel from a trickle to a flood.

Israeli immigration officials predict as many as 40,000 Soviet immigrants—each carrying only the equivalent of $100 and a crate of belongings for each family—may move to Israel this year. December recorded 3,000, and the January figure promises to be the same.

The mass immigration poses huge financial and housing problems, but Premier Golda Meir summed up the Israeli government's attitude toward the newcomers when she said, "I pray for a million such problems."

Moscow has threatened to swamp Israel with immigrants. Finance Minister Pinhas Sapir told the world Zionist Congress in Jerusalem, but "we shall receive this flood gladly."

"Never has such a mighty state menaced such a tiny nation with such a threat—a threat which is received with the fervent hope that it will be implemented," Sapir declared.

Israel wants manpower, whatever the cost, to strengthen the population of 2½ million Jews.

The Soviet Union, with a Jewish population estimated at three million, could become a major source of manpower. Russian immigrants stepping off the jumbo jets this week said they had almost no trouble getting exit permits.

Israel absorbed 690,000 immigrants during 1948-51. It anticipates in 1972 in addition to the Russians 10,000 Jewish settlers from North America, 5,000 from South America and 15,000 from East Europe and other regions.

The money goes for the immigrants' transportation to Israel, housing, education, social welfare and health services.

Housing is the biggest challenge.

Recent Russian immigrants have grumbled about being offered housing in remote development areas. They want to live near the bright lights of Tel Aviv or the cultural lures of Jerusalem.

Some Israeli assert so much is being spent on immigrants that not enough is left to rebuild slum areas or provide apartments for young couples after they have served in the army.

The Russians, some of them with academic skills they cannot use in Hebrew-speaking Israel, are bewildered by their new homeland.

The government doesn't send me customers the way the government did in Russia," complained an immigrant tailor. One newcomer from Salamanca refused to get on a bus to Haifa because he didn't have a travel permit—and wouldn't believe travel permits do not exist in Israel.

Israel absorbed 690,000 immigrants during 1948-51. It anticipates in 1972 in addition to the Russians 10,000 Jewish settlers from North America, 5,000 from South America and 15,000 from East Europe and other regions.

predicts as many as 40,000 Soviet immigrants—each carrying only the equivalent of $100 and a crate of belongings for each family—may move to Israel this year. December recorded 3,000, and the January figure promises to be the same.

The latest investigation is the third involving cheating at the 3,900-student Air Academy since 1965.

Clark and Galligan said the investigation started Wednesday night when a cadet under surveillance for suspicion of petty theft was confronted by cadet members of the honor committee.

Galligan said the cadet broke down and indicated his case was only "a piece of the action." He resigned, Clark said.

"I would be a great deal more worried if this (the violations) did not surface," Clark said. "The cadets themselves have discovered these cases and are conducting the investigation. They are living under their own standards."

The 13-year-old academy underwent its first major cheating probe in 1965, when 109 cadets resigned as a result of involvement in the theft, sale and improper use of examination papers. In 1967 another 46 resigned for either exchanging information on exams or for having knowledge of the cheating but not reporting it.

National Welfare Rights Organization Balloons Ranks

Editor's note: Nobody likes the welfare system, so why not change it? To what? That is the question, as shown in this final report by the AP Special Assignment Team on the welfare crisis.

By G. C. THELEN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Welfare reform starts with the intention of changing things so that loafers and cheats are weeded out, and only those persons truly in need are assisted.

The obstacles are two. Only 5 per cent of those already on the dole, say federal authorities, are robbing the public purse. A declining economy with an unemployment rate of 6.1 per cent can't generate enough jobs for skilled workers, much less the unskilled who make up the bulk of able-bodied workers on relief.

Still another factor is that many if not most, of the jobs available for the unskilled pay less than welfare benefits.

Because of this, says HEW Undersecretary John Veneman, the welfare system has become "a fundamental challenge to low-wage, marginal employment."

So, with a couple of notable exceptions, efforts to reform the welfare system mostly boil down to cutting checks. That's the case today in 26 states chipping away at relief benefits as the cold statistics of the welfare crisis, after a brief downturn, head upward again: $10 billion spent during the year ended last June on 14.3 million recipients, twice the people and three times the expenditures of 1960.

Cutting checks across the board produces its share of suffering as well as revenue savings, but Ralph Abascal, a San Francisco expert on poverty law, contends there is no alternative.

"The only real way to save money is to hurt everyone on welfare," he said. "There is no easy way to manipulate the parts of the welfare system to get at selected groups."

At least two states, and the federal government, are trying. California and New York have gone well beyond trimming checks to challenge the very way welfare has operated for 30 years.

Gov. Ronald Reagan's approach in California is unusual: Make others, such as sons of elderly recipients, pick up part of the bill for dependency.

In New York, Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller's reform effort focuses on work. He wants most men, some welfare mothers, and all teen-age children on relief to get jobs or earn their grants on public projects—“work relief.”

Most conservatives don't like Workfare, also known as the Family Assistance Plan. They claim the cost of covering the working poor, and of providing day care and temporary public jobs to welfare mothers, could add 11 million persons to relief rolls and double the current $5 billion federal share of public assistance.

Many liberals don't like Workfare either. They contend, among other things, that its $200-a-month payment to a family of four could lower checks in 45 states that now pay more.

Until the new law was passed, the federal government encouraged mothers and other able-bodied adult welfare recipients to work but didn't require it. Now, work or training is required for all the able-bodied, including mothers with children over age six—if day care is provided.

It remains unclear how much money Congress will appropriate for the public service jobs and day care facilities necessary to implement the law.

A sizable number of welfare officials believe work requirements will be meaningless unless accompanied by millions of public jobs similar to those provided by the Works Projects Administration during the Depression. Faced with millions of unemployed, WPA was set up in the 1930s to put relief recipients to work on public projects, from building dams to painting pictures.

"We look pretty silly today training people for jobs that don't exist," said David L. Daniel, Chicago welfare director.

Public service jobs likely would add more billions to the $10 billion already being paid out by federal, state and local governments.

even to keep up with the pace of new cases coming on the rolls," said Gilbert Steiner, a welfare expert at Brookings Institute.

The more realistic approach, he said, "would be to accept the need for more welfare and to reject continued fantasizing about day care and 'workfare' as miracle cures."

While attention remains on major reform efforts in Albany, Sacramento and Washington, smaller states are cutting rolls, benefits, or both.

Ten states have cut family checks across-the-board, ranging from 2 per cent in New Mexico to 20 per cent in Kansas. Nine others have tightened eligibility requirements, a move that took $3,000 off the rolls in Alabama.

The cuts and slowdowns had an impact. Rolls hit a record 14.4 million last spring, dropped 150,000 over the next four months, then climbed to within 12,000 of the old high in August, latest month for which statistics are available.

Nixon Requests Congress To Avoid Political Issues

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon summoned a Democratic Congress Thursday to join him in election-year partnership and pass, despite "the intense pressures" of a White House campaign, an array of stalled administration proposals, a bigger defense budget and a "new technology program" to promote research and create jobs.

"Let us join in making sure that legislation the nation needs does not become hostage to the political interest of any party or any person," the President said in a State of the Union message that challenged the House and Senate to act in 1972 on more than 90 proposals he already has sent to Capitol Hill.

His new technology plan, with details due later, would feature a $700 million increase in civilian research and development spending.

Nixon did not say exactly how much bigger his defense budget would be but he detailed $3.7 billion in increases, including $2 billion more for the Navy, $900 million to improve the sea-based U.S. nuclear deterrent force, and $838 million in stepped up research and development spending.

The leftover agenda was topped by his proposals for welfare reform, federal revenue sharing with the cities and states, reorganization of the executive branch, and a new health insurance program. In the latter area, he also proposed that Congress eliminate the $5.80 monthly fee now charged for medicare insurance for doctor's bills.

"Let us have our debates," the Republican President said. "Let us have our honest differences. But let us join in keeping the national interest first."

At that, applause sounded through a House chamber crowded with the leaders of American government.

Nixon's message concentrated on the unfinished agenda before Congress, but included the promise of a major new program later in the year, a measure designed to ease the burden of local property taxes in financing the public schools.

"These recommendations will be revolutionary," Nixon said. "But they will be rooted in one fundamental principle with which there can be no compromise: local school boards must have control over local schools."

That drew a burst of applause.

Speculation in that area has centered on a value-added tax, a form of national sales tax imposed at each stage of production and delivery, as the most likely proposal for a new tax source to lighten the load on property owners.

Nixon said only that his recommendations would relieve the burden of property taxes while "providing both fair and adequate financing for our children's education."

Such a proposal would inevitably become a major issue in the campaign ahead, but there is little chance Congress would act on it. Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott said a value-added tax probably could not be acted on this year. Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said he favors relief for the property taxpayer but opposes any national sales tax.

Nixon's 4,000-word address to a joint session of Congress, broadcast and televised nationally, was accompanied by a 15,000-word written message outlining in more detail his requests of Congress and his assessment of the State of the Union.

The President's speech was interrupted 13 times by applause, once by laughter, when he mentioned the roster of White House rivals in his audience.

"There are more candidates for the presidency in this chamber today than there probably have been at any one time in the whole history of the Republic."

Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine, leading contender among Nixon's Democratic challengers, called the address "an empty speech."

"You don't eliminate the pressures by ignoring the problems in a State of the Union speech," he said.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, campaigning for a 1972 presidential rematch with Nixon, said Nixon had delivered "a frontal assault on Congress without giving credit for some very constructive work."

Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington said Nixon had delivered "a political platform instead of a program that will help those in distress all over America."

In his written message, Nixon recited the administration record of troop withdrawals from South Vietnam, saying that by May 1, he will have cut forces by 87 per cent.

"It is my hope that we can end this tragic conflict through negotiation," he said. "If we cannot, then we will end it through Vietnamization. But end it we shall—in a way which fulfills our commitment to the people of South Vietnam and which gives them the chance for which they have already sacrificed so much—the chance to choose their own future."

Nixon also said he is confident that by the middle of 1973 "we can achieve our goal of reducing draft calls to zero."

He cautioned Congress and the nation not to expect "too much too quickly" from his forthcoming visits to Peking and Moscow.

"My visits will mean not that our differences have disappeared or will disappear in the near future," he said. "...The important thing is that we talk about these differences rather than fight about them."

authorities that Missouri will compete for the new facility.

Opponents of the Blackwell version complained that it would not give the new authority the power it needs to build or administer a new airport.

Among new measures introduced Thursday was one by Sen. John Schneider, D-Florissant, to expand state services for the handicapped.

It would create a state Division of Developmental Disabilities with regional facilities to provide diagnostic and referral programs. Families with children or adults afflicted with mental retardation, cerebral palsy, epilepsy or neurological disabilities could seek help from the state under the plan.

Other Senate bills would:

Set a $1.80 an hour minimum wage this year and $2 an hour next year.

Prohibit St. Louis policemen from using firearms unless their lives or others' lives are endangered, or to prevent the escape of a dangerous suspected felon.

Establish a review board to listen to Corrections Department inmates' complaints and curtail the flow of frivolous suits in the courts.

The Senate gave first round approval to bills requiring St. Louis County municipalities of over 400 population to maintain around-the-clock police protection, and to permit officers to transfer from one St. Louis County department to another without having to take required training again.

Compensation Bill Signed by Hearnes

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Three hours after Gov. Warren E. Hearnes signed an emergency unemployment compensation bill into law Thursday the state division of Employment Security started hauling 6,808 extended benefit checks to the post office.

The new law became effective as soon as Hearnes signed it a little past noon. It put Missouri's unemployment compensation law in compliance with federal requirements.

The most immediate effect was the extended benefit payments. The new law provides that when a jobless worker has exhausted his regular 26 weeks of benefits he may claim up to 13 weeks of additional compensation.

The law also will save business and industry an estimated $150 million in penalty taxes this year and will extend unemployment compensation coverage to the employees of state colleges, universities and hospitals.

The bill followed a sometimes hectic, sometimes headlong course through the legislature.

Hearnes told the legislature Jan. 5 the measure was a must because the House and Senate failed to agree on it last year.

The Senate started working on it at once but two labor-oriented members, Sens. Edward T. Linehan, D-St. Louis, and Robert A. Young, D-St. Ann, set the brakes. They wanted to put in some greater employee benefits.

Finally, the Senate passed the bill despite their opposition and a day-long filibuster.

In the House, the ways were greased. The bill passed Wednesday 150-0 and legislative employees hurried to put the bill into the final form for presentation to the governor.

The presiding officers of the House and Senate signed it swiftly at mid-morning Thursday. Then the pace slowed a bit as members of the governor's staff carefully checked the wording to make sure it was correct in every detail.

Part of Program

The Concert Choir of Central Missouri State College, under the direction of Dr. Ralph E. Hart, will sing at a special concert to be held at 3:30 p.m. Sunday in the Smith-Cotton auditorium. The CMSC Symphony Orchestra also will be on the bill, making a total of about 140 singers and musicians. The concert is free to the public.

South Viets Launch Preventive Operation

SAIGON (AP) — A South Vietnamese task force of 10,000 to 15,000 men has launched an operation northwest of Saigon to prevent any enemy offensive near the capital, Saigon headquarters said Thursday.

The force of infantry, paratroopers, armored units and militia is sweeping a rubber plantation area 45 miles northwest of Saigon that once was an enemy stronghold.

The first significant contact since the operation began Saturday occurred south of the Michelin rubber plantation. Rangers killed 10 enemy soldiers seven miles south of the plantation, headquarters announced. Military sources said the rangers lost one killed and four wounded.

Third military region troops, responsible for protecting Saigon and the 11 surrounding provinces, recently withdrew from south-central Cambodia to gain increased mobility near Saigon and in the Saigon River corridor to the north.

The U.S. Command also reported an F4 Phantom jet was shot down Thursday over Laos and both crewmen were rescued. The command could furnish no further details.

More South Vietnamese troops were killed in the week ended Saturday than in any week in the previous month, Saigon command figures showed. More South Vietnamese troops were wounded than in any week since last Oct. 16.

The command reported 390 soldiers killed and 819 wounded during the week.

Five American soldiers were killed in action during the week, about average for the past three months. The U.S. Command said 26 were wounded, about half the weekly average for the last quarter of 1971. Eight American deaths were caused by such nonhostile causes as disease and accidents.

The allied commands have reported these total casualties for the war:

America—45,637 killed in action, 302,519 wounded, 10,047 dead from nonhostile causes and 1,492 missing or captured.

South Vietnamese—138,476 killed in action, 299,728 wounded.

North Vietnamese and Viet Cong—791,509 killed.

Women's Lib Raps On Academy Door

Women's Lib has been characterized from the start by some of the most incredible nonsense ever foisted off on the public. We suspect that most Americans have been more bemused than moved by the feminist movement, but now it appears that otherwise reasonable individuals are taking the girls seriously.

Nothing less than a U.S. senator and a member of the House of Representatives have announced their intention to nominate girls for admission to the U.S. Naval Academy at Annapolis.

Shiver me timbers! The Naval Academy?

Rep. John McDonald, R-Mich., and Sen. Jacob Javits, R-N.Y., have been conned into putting up a female constituent apiece for admission to the Academy. Both say they see nothing wrong with the nominations.

No fewer than a dozen or so objections leap to mind immediately. But even Navy Secretary John H. Chafee was unable to deter Javits from having his "midshipwoman."

McDonald's nominee admits to no intention of making the Navy her career, but intends to become an interpreter and translator in Russian for the State Department. Then why, in the name of John Paul Jones, couldn't she attend the Foreign Service's own tailor-made preparatory university?

The U.S. Navy currently has its hands full meeting its world-wide commitments and fending off the growing Soviet challenge on the seas. Whether it can handle this, plus the possible advent of the "midshipwoman," is an open question.

BERRY'S WORLD

Today's Thought

Art Buchwald

"It is you, O king, who have grown and become strong. Your greatness has grown and reaches to heaven, and your dominion to the ends of the earth." — Daniel 4:22.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

Sir Arthur Conan Doyle created the famous detective Sherlock Holmes in "A Study in Scarlet," published in Beeton's Christmas Annual, in 1887. The World Almanac says. Doyle received a medical degree in 1881, but abandoned his medical practice in 1890 to devote his time to writing.

WASHINGTON — I have just received a top secret document which makes the Pentagon and Anderson papers look as innocent as Erich Segal's "Love Story." Although it may compromise this nation's security and give aid and comfort to our enemies, I feel obligated to reveal the contents so the public will know what is really going on in the administration.

The document was authored by Herb Klein, President Nixon's director of communications, and was xeroxed and hand-delivered to me in my office by someone who, for the moment, cannot be identified.

Buchwald The title of the document, which is 33 pages long, is "Richard Nixon's Third Year."

In the introduction Klein writes, "In the year now ending President Nixon moved vigorously on both the foreign and domestic fronts to strengthen the foundations for a generation of peace in the world and for a new prosperity without war and without inflation here in the United States."

This blockbuster is followed by Klein's revelation that "it was a year of bold initiatives including the new economic policies launched on Aug. 15, with the wage-price freeze, job creating tax stimuli and measures to bring about a reformation of the international monetary system and a fairer trading break for American goods — and thus for American workers — in the world's markets."

The Klein papers say that the Nixon administration has given hope to the young as well as the old, and advances in "housing, in public transportation, in crime control, in education, all contributed toward making our communities more livable."

As if this weren't damaging enough, Klein went on to say that for Nixon 1971 "was a year of large conceptions, of daring innovation and substantial progress — a year of bold action BASED ON METICULOUS PREPARATION (The emphasis is mine). It was a good year that promises much for those to follow."

Why Herb Klein would attack the administration in this manner is not clear. There has been some talk that he was disenchanted with the role he has been asked to play in the White House, but it doesn't explain such virulent disclosures as the fact that under President Nixon employment was increasing strongly, the rate of inflation was being slowed and "that there was growing confidence that the stubborn economic problems generated by the inflation of the late 1960s were being solved."

Throwing caution to the wind, Klein said President Nixon was responsible for crime rates being down and rehabilitation rates of criminals up.

Klein also charged the Nixon administration with providing more people with food stamps, advancing the cause of school desegregation and appointing more black ambassadors, black generals and black admirals (one) than ever before.

The President was also given credit in the Klein papers for reducing highway deaths and pollution and promising a great future for the farmers in 1972.

As far as foreign relations went, there wasn't one place on the globe where President Nixon hadn't made substantial progress.

To read the section on foreign affairs, things are so rosy that one is surprised to discover that the President was also increasing our aerial and sea superiority.

Not since Jack Valenti attacked Lyndon Johnson has an aide at the White House seen fit to write such a frank and honest appraisal of an American President.

The memorandum was obviously written for limited circulation in the White House and never meant to be seen by the press. But someone in the administration has seen fit to distribute it to the press.

I have the Klein papers in my office right now, and if John Mitchell's Justice Department wants to do anything about it, I'm willing to stand trial. At the risk of going to jail I believe the public has a right to know what Nixon's public relations people are saying about him.

"AND THEN THE WINNER GETS TO CHALLENGE ME. MORE TEA, CHOU?"

Merry-Go-Round

Nixon Will Boost Military Spending

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — President Nixon has called an abrupt halt to military cutbacks and will grant the armed forces a bigger bite out of the next budget.

He has decided to use military spending rather than domestic increases to stimulate the economy. Indeed, the brass hats will get more money, if the President has his way, than they requested.

The question of matching Soviet military expansion has come up at secret National Security Council meetings on the defense budget. Showing grim determination to meet the Soviet threat, the President has decreed:

✓ The Army will maintain 13 divisions, two more than the generals expected. Combat readiness will also be improved.

✓ The Navy will get 55 more ships than the admirals finally requested. This will bring the fleet up to 600 ships. The emphasis will be upon smaller, less costly ships.

✓ The Air Force will get extra crews and spare parts not in the budget proposals that came out of the Pentagon. Air sorties in Southeast Asia will also be stepped up by 50 per cent. The 463 giant B-52 bombers will be improved. A sophisticated new bomber, known as the B-1, is under development. SRAM missiles, capable of striking targets from the air hundreds of miles away, will also be installed aboard bombers.

✓ Multiple warheads will be installed on many of our 1,054 land-based intercontinental missiles and 656 sea-based missiles. By 1978, the number of deliverable warheads will be doubled from 4,100 to 8,200. These pack a smaller nuclear wallop, however, than do the big Soviet warheads. For this reason, our land-based missile sites are being hardened by a factor of three to withstand a Soviet near miss.

Reached at his home, Whalley promised to find out whether he had a right to use the funds as he had. Asked if he were, indeed, a millionaire, he said, "I don't know."

The FBI is now investigating our charges that Whalley has required payroll kickbacks from his staffers. The Windber wheeler-dealer has also been reported to the House Ethics Committee for alleged kickbacks by an ex-staffer.

Whalley need have no fear from the Ethics Committee, which has a better supply of whitewash than righteous zeal.

Nevertheless, he has called in two top lawyers. One, former Rep. Bill Cramer, R-Fla., is a close Nixon ally. The other is Benton Becker, a tough young ex-Justice Department lawyer who, ironically, once fought to indict Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, D-N.Y., on kickbacks and related charges.

Proxmire Lounge — Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., has jumped on the Lockheed Company in Marietta, Ga., for its fabulous failure with the giant C5A transport plane. But the people of Marietta love Lockheed because it poured money into the community. When the Ramada Inn in Marietta was opened, its proprietor, Jack Hurt, named its public rooms after Lockheed planes. There is the Jetstar restaurant, the Galaxy ballroom and the Starlifter room. Then it came time to name the men's restroom. Hurt jestingly suggested that maybe it should be named the "Proxmire Room."

Frugal Flood — The Senate Post Office and Civil Service Committee is considering a bill that would let members of Congress collect their full retirement benefits even if they have a break in their membership. All the congressmen would have to do is pay the retirement and related deductions for the period they were not in Congress. The man putting in the bill is Rep. Dan Flood, D-Pa., who has had two such breaks in his own service.

Hartke and Blacks — Sen. Vance Hartke, D-Ind., complained at a recent Senate hearing that the Interstate Commerce Commission did not have a single black member. Hartke failed to note he had only a single Negro on his own staff of some 30 people. We chided the senator about it, and are glad to report that Hartke has been able to find five talented blacks who are now on his and his committee staffs.

Both Kelso and Governor Ferre are capitalists to the bone. They also are social thinkers. Under the present economic system, the typical worker is effectively denied a part in the capital structure. Such a worker has but one source of income, his own labor. The Kelso plan would provide him, through his dividends, a second source of income — a source, moreover, that is tied to inflationary forces.

The Puerto Rican venture admittedly is small in scope. Any critic could advance 100 reasons why it can't work. At the very least, it will demand a prodigious job of explanation. The whole theory sounds crazy. But, then, one may recall, they said all that of Copernicus, too.

A Conservative View

Bold New Idea For Island

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK

SAN JUAN, P.R. — He looks like a professor of astronomy, unwinding at the Faculty Club after a long day on Observatory Hill. He is slightly bemused by the inability of others to comprehend those Milky Way mysteries that are perfectly clear to him. Bow-tied and bright-eyed, he is no bigger than a large sparrow or a small owl—but he makes you listen. His name, they say, is Louis O. Kelso. An uneasy suspicion will not go away that his name is really Copernicus.

By any name, this sawed-off San Francisco lawyer is just now the talk of Puerto Rico. He is the principal inspiration and chief author of a capital fund plan presented to the Puerto Rican legislature Friday evening by Gov. Luis A. Ferre. In the astronomy of economics, the Kelso theory has all the mad simplicity of suggesting that the earth goes around the sun. Everybody knows it isn't so.

This takes a little explaining. I ask you to hold still, because Kelso may be important. If his plan of "universal capitalism" is sound—and a respectable flock of hard-headed businessmen have begun to try it—the guy may have found a cure for inflation, poverty, and the abuses of welfare. Sure enough, his formula sounds like Lydia Pinkham's Vegetable Compound; but Governor Ferre, who is nobody's fool, is risking his reputation on the scheme.

This is the plan: The Commonwealth of Puerto Rico, through its legislature, will create an unprecedented "Proprietary Fund" along the lines of our Comsat—a public corporation, privately managed. Beginning in July, if all goes well, an estimated 800,000 Puerto Rican workers, earning between $500 and $7,800 a year, will become eligible to buy shares of preferred stock in the fund.

Assume for the sake of example that 100,000 such workers agree to take 100 shares each at one dollar a share. That is $10 million. The Commonwealth then would match this investment, share for share, in common stock in the fund. It is anticipated that the great bulk of investors would not pay for their preferred stock out of savings or current earnings; it is expected that they would borrow the money through a bank at a low interest rate, pledging their total stock as security and applying the dividends toward payment of interest and possibly (if the Fund does well) toward repayment of the principal also.

At the end of five years, the government guarantees redemption of the preferred stock at par value. This guarantees repayment of the original $100 loan. The bank cannot lose. The worker cannot lose either. He always comes out of the deal with at least his matching 100 shares of common. Neither can the Commonwealth lose: Its Fund will have enjoyed the use of this capital all the way.

Meanwhile, it is assumed that the Fund is earning money through investments, through rentals, through its own industrial development loans. The $10 million invested by the workers, plus the $10 million put up by the Commonwealth, provides a capital pool of $20 million. With good management, such a fund should earn 15 to 20 per cent, all of which would be paid out in dividends. For the first time in their lives, the workers would be getting a little piece of capitalist action. In 10 or 20 years, it might be a big piece.

Both Kelso and Governor Ferre are capitalists to the bone. They also are social thinkers. Under the present economic system, the typical worker is effectively denied a part in the capital structure. Such a worker has but one source of income, his own labor. The Kelso plan would provide him, through his dividends, a second source of income — a source, moreover, that is tied to inflationary forces.

The Puerto Rican venture admittedly is small in scope. Any critic could advance 100 reasons why it can't work. At the very least, it will demand a prodigious job of explanation. The whole theory sounds crazy. But, then, one may recall, they said all that of Copernicus, too.

The student could not wait to leap from his chair to see how the professor was going to play the six-spade contract. After all, the student had bid the slam without knowing whether there would be a play for it.

When he saw the professor's cards he knew he had made a bad bid. Hopefully he watched to see what, if anything, the professor could do to save the sinking ship.

East won the first trick with the 10 of hearts and continued the suit. The professor ruffed high; played a couple of rounds of trumps; led a diamond to the ace; ruffed a diamond and ran off all his trumps but one.

By this time West had discarded two diamonds and three clubs and East had thrown one diamond and a bunch of hearts. Dummy still held three clubs and a diamond.

Then the professor led a low club: went up with dummy's ace; dropped

"How did you work that out?" asked the student. "I would have lost a finesse to that singleton king."

"Beggars can't be choosers," replied the professor. "If West held the king it was not going to drop and I would have to lose a club trick eventually. My only chance was to drop a singleton king and it came off."

He did not say how big the increase will be but did detail $3.7 billion in additional defense spending to be included in his budget next Monday.

Sen. Allen J. Ellender, D-La., chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee, said he had been told the overall defense budget would come to some $83 billion, an increase of about $3 billion.

"We'll have to do what we did this year—time some of it," he said.

Second Fraud Effort Is Reported By Area Woman

(Democrat-Capital Service)

SYRACUSE — Elderly people may be "taken" by confidence men once, but the second time around they are a little more alert.

An incident Wednesday near here proved an attempt to defraud an elderly woman doesn't work so well the second time, and almost led to the capture of two men practicing a confidence game.

Sheriff J. T. Hull of Morgan County told The Democrat-Capital that about six weeks ago two men went to the home of Mrs. Nettie Decker, south of Highway 50 and west of Syracuse, and proposed to replace the lightning rod on top of the Decker barn for $42.

They convinced Mrs. Decker the rod needed to be replaced, and went to work. When the job was "finished" the men filled out a sales slip and demanded payment. Mrs. Decker, who has a little trouble seeing and writing, asked one of the men to fill out her check, then she signed the check.

The next day Mrs. Decker's banker called and informed her a man had presented the check and asked Mrs. Decker if it was all right to cash the check. She said to go ahead.

When the check had cleared and was returned to Mrs. Decker, she found it had been made out for $420, instead of the $42 she had expected. On examination of the sales slip for the work, Mrs. Decker found it, too, had been made out for $420. She accepted the loss.

Examination of the lightning rod showed it had not been replaced, but the old rod had been shortened.

Wednesday, by coincidence, two men stopped at Mrs. Decker's home and told her the lightning rod on top of her house, along with the cables involved, should be replaced. One of the men was identified as Larry Hudman, Center, Mo., according to Sheriff Hull.

Mrs. Decker told the men she did not believe the lightning arresting gear should be replaced, but they went ahead with the work anyway, removed the rod and cables, rolled up the cables and placed the cables and rod in their pickup truck.

About this time Mrs. Decker decided to seek assistance and called a neighbor, Herbert Brauer Otterville. Brauer and two sheriff's deputies responded.

Sheriff Emmett Fairfax suggested residents of Pettis County do the same — call the Chamber of Commerce, the sheriff's office or the police department if strangers attempt to do this type of work.

He explained that lightning rod salesmen, septic tank cleaners and termite exterminators are the three areas most likely to be fraudulent. He suggested the use of locally known people to do the work. "Some are better than others, of course, but all are at least licensed, and will probably do a good job because their living depends on their work," the sheriff concluded.
